HEALTHCARE OVERVIEW

NOLAN HEALTHCARE IT PRACTICE

Using Technology to Deliver On Your Strategy

As the heightened pace of change continues in the healthcare industry, smart use of technology has become a clear differentiator. The Nolan Company helps healthcare organizations distinguish themselves in this market with the right blend of technology-enabled capabilities that support their business objectives.

Emerging Opportunities

Healthcare reform has already created a climate of change that encompasses much more than regulatory requirements. With market-based movements like consumerism and the adoption of new technologies, healthcare organizations must create capacity to invest in new capabilities — without sacrificing efficiency or efficacy along the way.

What We Offer

The Nolan Healthcare IT Practice focuses on the business challenges of the healthcare industry in order to help healthcare payers make the most effective use of their IT assets and resources. Our consultants have the industry knowledge, technological expertise, and proven frameworks to develop and deliver sound IT solutions. Leaders in the healthcare industry have successfully leveraged Nolan's broad base of experience to address core concerns such as IT sourcing, as well as forward-thinking strategies related to mobile technologies and business analytics. Our solutions are recognized for delivering both immediate results and lasting outcomes.

Key Outcomes

Create capacity in your change agenda by turning your IT capabilities into more effective enablers of your business strategy. The Nolan Company gets the fundamentals right so you can leverage your technology investments more effectively, resulting in accelerated deliveries, lower risk profiles, and greater business agility.
